- Highly rated portfolio of quality small-cap Australian equities
- Long-standing and well-resourced team of professional smaller companies investors
- Proven process that has delivered investors strong long-term returns across all market cycles
- Available on all major platforms

Case for smaller companies

Companies with smaller market capitalisation (typically less than $300 million), also known as small-cap stocks, can present excellent investment opportunities and play an important role in an investor's portfolio.

Providing added diversification, small-cap stocks can also temper the exposure most Australian indices and large-cap managed funds have to banks and resource stocks. For example, the financials (ex property) sector alone, which includes banks, makes up over a third of the S&P/ASX 100 Index.

With recent headwinds felt by the banking and mining sectors thanks to a challenging operating environment and weakened commodity prices, smaller companies may provide a buffer to this cyclicality. In other words, exposure to listed companies that are less sensitive to macro-economic events may be one way to smooth portfolio returns.

Greater growth potential

Smaller companies tend to be at an earlier stage of development which increases their growth potential. For example, it's easier for a company making $50 million in profit to double that amount than one that is making $500 million. Similarly, faster growing companies can be harder to find among larger businesses as many already operate in more mature industries.

Greater alignment of investor interest

Smaller businesses tend to have a higher level of founder and/or management ownership, meaning management's interests are more likely to be better aligned with those of investors.

Greater investment choice

The number of listed smaller companies is greater than those with larger market capitalisation. This provides more stocks in which to invest and therefore, the potential for greater portfolio diversification while offering exposure to companies outside the S&P/ASX 100 Index that may be less affected by macroeconomic factors.

More opportunity to generate superior returns

The top 10 small-cap stocks make up around 15% of the small-cap index, compared with the 10 largest large-cap stocks making up over 50% of the S&P/ASX 100 Index. This diversity is one reason why active investment managers may have more opportunity to generate superior returns.

Fund overview

Managed by OC Funds Management (OC), the OC Premium Small Companies Fund (Fund) is a long-only, benchmark-unaware unit trust primarily investing in 30 to 50 quality small to medium-sized Australian companies with sustainable business models, quality management and attractive investment fundamentals that are listed, or about to list, on the Australian Securities Exchange (ASX).

Investment objective

The Fund aims to provide investors a total return of (after fees and expenses) 3 – 5% per annum above the S&P/ASX Small Ordinaries Accumulation Index over a rolling five-year period.

Investment approach

The Fund's investment universe includes all companies listed, or about to list, on the ASX regardless of their size or business sector. Despite the broad investment universe, OC focuses on smaller businesses (ex ASX 100) believing they are:

- easier to understand
- simpler to value, and
- more accessible to research.

To minimise the risk of poor performing investments, OC looks to invest in companies with:

- strong management
- simple and transparent business models
- high cash conversion and capital light
- sustainable competitive advantages
- favourable operational risk characteristics, and
- attractive valuation metrics based on OC's proven financial analysis and valuation techniques.

Access to key management and earnings transparency is critical.

The team places heavy emphasis on risk management, which is ingrained through each stage of its investment process, screening out businesses with:

- no profitability or cash flow
- a market capitalisation of less than $50 million (due to liquidity and quality considerations)
- complex technologies which are difficult to forecast
- unproven business models
- insufficient diversification of product or supply (e.g. single commodity/single mine), or
- management that is not aligned with its shareholders or that is inaccessible.

“Our view is that equity markets can be emotional, backward looking and inefficient, particularly in small caps where there can be a lot of market ‘noise’. We believe this can provide opportunities for prudent investors who make considered investment decisions based on thorough analysis.”
